

Maryland Higher Education Commission, Higher Education Investment Fund BRAC
Grants, 2009 and 2010

2009 Awards:

Baltimore City Community College, $129,676 - “Fiber Optic/Copper and Coaxial Cabling Workforce Development Training, Green Construction for Construction Supervision, and Security Specialist Training”

Bowie State University, $140,000 - “Certificate and Master of Science Program in Information Assurance”

Cecil College, $80,828 - “Computer Skills Certifications for the Incumbent BRAC Workforce”

Cecil College, $70,000 - “Improving Reading & Writing Literacy through Technology”

The Community College of Baltimore County (CCBC), $150,000 - “Capacity Building: Electrical/Electronic Engineering Technology Education Program”

The Community College of Baltimore County (CCBC), $83,943 - “Workforce Literacy for Non-Native Speakers”

Hagerstown Community College (HCC), $113,052 - “Building a Biotechnology Workforce to Meet Ft. Detrick’s BRAC-Related Needs”

Harford Community College, $153,198 - “Career Pathways in Engineering Technology and Engineering Occupations”

Johns Hopkins University Whiting School of Engineering, $140,000 - “Acceleration of Online Development of MS in Systems Engineering”

Morgan State University, $107,059 - “An Applied Interdisciplinary Informatics Curriculum to Address Needs of BRAC”

Prince George’s Community College, $87,000 - “BRAC-Preparation Partnership for Expanding Information Security Capacity in Maryland”

Towson University, $90,990 - “Expanding an Applied Information Technology Masters Program”

Towson University, $60,000 - “Maryland Financial Literacy and BRAC: A Free Online Course”

University of Baltimore, $25,381 - “Certificate Program in Strategic Management and Public Accountability”

Higher Education Investment Fund BRAC Grants, pg. 2

University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC), $135,808 - “BRAC-Responsive Enhancements of UMBC’s Engineering Graduate Program”

Washington College, $164,511 - “Geospatial Technology Training for the Current and Future BRAC Workforce”

2010 Awards:

Anne Arundel Community College, $80,234 - “Mobile Device Forensics”

Baltimore City Community College, $50,054 - “Cisco Certification Training and Security Specialist Training”

Capitol College, $92,992 - “Cyber Battle Laboratory”

Cecil Community College, $65,793 - “Office Specialist Diploma for the Emerging BRAC Workforce”

Cecil Community College, $7,1204 - “Engineering Technology Software Skills”

Hagerstown Community College, $74,060 - “InnovaBio-MD: An Innovative Partnership between Hagerstown C.C. and Ft. Detrick Research Agencies”

Howard Community College, $78,697 - “Improving Net Sec Enrollment”

Loyola University of Maryland, $43, 615 - “A Computer Science Boot Camp for Career Changers”

University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC), $83,280 - “Establishment of a Center for Cybersecurity Training”

Morgan State University, $87,460 - “Online Electrical Engineering Program”

Towson University, $44,908 - “Development of an Online Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Technical Writing and Information Design”

Washington College, $92,482 - “Geospatial Technology Training for the Current and Future BRAC Workforce”